FAILS TRYING MAKE MONEY FOR HER WEDDING

When Business Upon Which
She Depends Suspends,

GROWS DESPONDENT
OVER CONSTANT LOSS

Sweetheart Is Unable to Cheer
Her Up and Prevent Her Death

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—Discouraged beyond hope by the failure of her business, upon which she depended for sufficient money to marry, Jane Bernstein took her life by drinking carbolic acid in the little bakery at 129 Noe street, and this morning, shortly before noon, her body was taken to the morgue, where her sweetheart, Arthur Biersham, sits beside it inconsolable.

The couple had known each other for less than a year. Recently they became engaged and the wedding was set for June 15. They saved their money for the past two months for the purpose of buying some small business, upon the profits of which they could live in comfort.

On May 29 they purchased the bakery business at 129 Noe street and paid $100 to Baird & Petersen, brokers, for the place, its fixtures and good will. Last Monday morning they opened the place for business. The day passed without the receipts totaling $1.

Becomes Despondent

Mrs. Bernstein became despondent but did not give up her business in trade.

She was blamed to most other people. The women of the neighborhood began to pour into the store to make demands for the cake dishes and other things. Mrs. Bernstein believed she had purchased along with the business, she was soon convinced, however, that the women had been in the habit of making cakes for her predecessor and she was selling them at a commission. When the owners of the goods were given all that belonged to them, there was little left and Mrs. Bernstein decided she would get out of the store and do what she could of her little sum of money.

So Monday she called upon the owner of the property and offered to pay a part of the rent covering the few days she had occupied the store. The proposal was refused, however, and Mrs. Bernstein had to pay $25 for the month.

Takes Deadly Drug

There was still some hope, she felt, until bills contracted by her predecessor began to pour in and she was informed that by buying the business she had obligated herself to pay all standing debts.

This was too much, and yesterday morning Biersham, who is 27 years old, found Mrs. Bernstein in deep melancholy. He did everything possible to cheer her, but when he was absent she drank carbolic acid.

Dr. G. F. Brackett was called and he treated the woman until 9 o'clock last night, when she died. Coroner Leland was not notified of the death until this morning, and he at once took charge of the body.

Pretty Miss Gives Up Career And Elopes to Become Bride

MRS. FRANK KROUGH
Who Was Miss Tillie Dibble, Who Was Secretly Married in San Rafael Yesterday.

An ardent eventful courtship and a romantic elopement are summed up in the secret marriage of Miss Tillie Dibble, a Providence Hospital nurse, and Frank Krough, turkman and former star jockey of the Charles Bowman stables.

The young couple slipped away to San Rafael on Saturday last and were married in the afternoon. Then, with her bright gold band on her finger, the little bride returned to the East Oakland home of her parents in this city where, after an anxious half hour, enveloped by parental reproaches and explanations on the part of the runaways, forgiveness was forthcoming.

Today Mr. and Mrs. Krough are at the Dibble home, where they will remain for a few days preliminary to leaving for the East, and dressmakers hold high sway as the heroine of the elopement hastily scrambles together the trousseau without which no marriage seems quite complete from the feminine point of view.

"Of course I was going to be a nurse," Miss Krough, who is not yet twenty, explained this morning over a rushing pile of silk and lace that suggested a belated bridal gown, "and yes, I'll admit I didn't anticipate an early marriage but well, you see I hadn't met Frank. The explanation sounded sufficient, and the little bride's tone made it convincing."

Mrs. Krough is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Dibble and has lived in this city all her life. She is popular in the East Oakland coterie, where, because of her charming personality, she has made an enviable number of friends. Krough is well known in the sporting world, where as jockey he has been prominently identified with racetracks, both here and in the East. The young couple will spend several months in New York after leaving here, though they will probably return to this city when ready to take up a permanent residence.

There will in all probability be fifteen new patrolmen added to the force. This is the number which Chief of Police Wilson asks for in the budget for the coming year which is now in the hands of City Auditor Greco.

At the meeting of the Council last night an ordinance was introduced increasing the salary of the Chief of Police department by six. Their salary will be $125 a month.

Changes in Police Force

In event that the department is increased in accordance with the request of Chief of Police Wilson there will be 156 men in the department, which is proportionate to population. It is much less than San Francisco and other cities have. In view of the fact that which new policemen are being selected Chief of Police Wilson believes the department under him will make up in efficiency what it lacks in numbers.

The reorganization of both departments is a necessity. In view of the fact that the department is so large and has carried it would not have been necessary to change the titles of the heads of the departments.

MISS CASE BREAKS
ENGAGEMENT TO
CLAUS SPRECKELS

NEW YORK, June 8.—The engagement of Miss Mary Adele Case, the concert singer, to marry Claus Spreckels, III, of California, has been broken, and Miss Case will soon start for Seattle alone. Information of the engagement became public known when Spreckels and Miss Case arrived from Europe on Sunday. Today Miss Case said she had broken the engagement.

Therefore, either $111 in cash or $20 in cash and 100 in 4% per cent 21-year debenture bonds, or may elect to accept common stock. The directors at their meeting today authorized the issue of $100,000,000 in 4% twenty years debentures, redeemable after three years at 120.

LOCAL POLICE DEPARTMENT WILL BE CHANGED

Fifteen New Patrolmen to Be Added; New Name For Chief

FIRE FORCES ALSO TO BE REORGANIZED

More Men to Be Employed as Regulars; Larger Salary
For Head

Both the police department and the fire department of the city are to be reorganized before July 1 and the salaries of the heads of the two departments raised. This is the program mapped out by the administration and will undoubtedly go through, as the majority of the councilmen have already signified their intention of voting for the departmental changes.

The first step in the reorganization was taken at a meeting of the City Council last night when an ordinance, at the instance of Councilman Roccus and Fire Chief Ball was introduced, providing for a fully paid fire department in the center of the city. At the present time volunteers in the way of extramural are used. There is not a completely manned company in the city. Better service and surer service can be brought about by a fully paid company which is on duty all the time, than by depending on extramural who work at other occupations.

Thirty-Seven Paid Men

The ordinance introduced last night provides that there shall be thirty-seven fully paid men in the business center of the city. These will be apportioned between Engine No. 1 and engine No. 2, the Allice street fire house and truck No. 1.

There will be four captains at a salary of $125, four lieutenants at a salary of $100, fifteen hosemen at a salary of $100, eight laddermen at a salary of $100 and six substitutes at a salary of $100, making a total of thirty-seven salaried employees.

The position of Fire Chief Ball, Fire Warden McDonald and Assistant Chief Sam Short will remain the same. The new captain to be appointed will correspond to the position of foreman now. The lieutenant of the fire department correspond to the assistant foreman now. The other positions called for in the new ordinance will remain the same in the matter of rank.

At the same time that the fire department is reorganized, the salary of the heads of the department will also be raised.

To Change Title

Instead of having the title of chief attached to his name, Ball will be known in the fire marshal and instead of drawing the title of chief, which is less than the rank of captain in San Francisco, Ball will at least draw $3000 a year. In San Francisco the salary is $5,000 a year and the duties are less onerous.

The administration and the council have practically agreed to this program and the new order of things will begin on or about July 1.

There will also be a big shake up in the police department, although less permanent position will be created. Chief of Police Wilson will have his salary raised to at least $250 a month, and will have the title of Superintendent of Police.

There will in all probability be fifteen new patrolmen added to the force. This is the number which Chief of Police Wilson asks for in the budget for the coming year which is now in the hands of City Auditor Greco.

At the meeting of the Council last night an ordinance was introduced increasing the salary of the Chief of Police department by six. Their salary will be $125 a month.

ELOPING PAIR WHIZ AWAY IN AUTO WITH LICENSE

18-Year-Girl of Auburn Here With Fiance

What looks like an elopement of more than usual interest took place today when John T. Degman, a young San Francisco business man, and Miss Maude Pizer, a beautiful Auburn girl, who is thought to be the daughter of John H. Pizer, a wealthy fruit grower of that section, applied for a marriage license at the County Clerk's office here this afternoon.

The young couple arrived here in a large touring car. The girl was heavily veiled, lifting the drape over face only after she reached the license bureau where she gave her name and place of residence hesitatingly.

Afterward with the coveted document safe in their possession, the young couple slipped into the waiting machine and were whirled away.

Degman is identified with a mercantile house in San Francisco and it is thought that Miss Pizer came to this city intending to be married secretly. She is a beautiful girl with a wealth of brown hair, brown eyes and stately carriage. She gave her age as 18 years. Degman registered as 31.

An added note of interest is given the mysterious affair by the fact that the young woman's hand was swathed in bandages as if she had suffered a recent, and rather serious, injury.

FORCED TO APPEAL TO COURT TO SEE HUSBAND

Doctor Keeps Patient Secluded in Hospital

LOS ANGELES, June 8.—Sarah W. Whitney, a prominent club woman of Pasadena, today invoked the aid of the Superior Court in order that she might be able to see her aged husband, G. A. Whitney, a wealthy retired real estate operator, who is in the California Hospital, and supposed to be dying.

Mrs. Whitney alleges that she is restrained by the attending physician, Dr. E. J. Cook and the nurses from seeing her husband, and that their sons and friends are similarly barred. An effort on the part of an attorney to control the disposal of the Whitney estate is alleged by Mrs. Whitney to be back of the opposition to her. She says she is not concerned with the financial features of the matter, but desires to see her husband. Dr. Cook says the patient is too ill to be seen by anyone. The court appointed two other physicians to investigate the case and report tomorrow morning whether Mr. Whitney was able to see any one or not. Whitney is 76 years of age.

Therefore, either $111 in cash or $20 in cash and 100 in 4% per cent 21-year debenture bonds, or may elect to accept common stock. The directors at their meeting today authorized the issue of $100,000,000 in 4% twenty years debentures, redeemable after three years at 120.

BLOOD STAINS MAY CAUSE BURGLAR'S CAPTURE

Leaps Through Window When Woman Screams and

MAKES HIS ESCAPE,
CARRYING AWAY LOOT

Other Valuables Are Left by Thief in His Hury to Quit House

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—From a pool of blood left by a burglar fleeing to escape arrest, the local police believe they have the means of apprehending a daring housebreaker. Mrs. George McCarthy of 1909 Webster street, while entertaining friends at her home last evening, suddenly thought of an object in the dining room which she wished to show her guests.

Gliding softly through the hallway between the reception and the dining rooms, she entered the latter apartment, and found a burglar busily engaged looting the china cabinet.

Screams For Help

In her fright at the appearance of the thief, Mrs. McCarthy shouted for help. The burglar, evidently startled, fled directly for the window through which he jumped bodily and landed in a heap in the alleyway below. Stunned for an instant the burglar lay where he had fallen, but the sound of hurried footsteps aroused him to his dignity and he concluded his flight.

The few moments he lay on the ground, however, sufficed to show he had been seriously cut in jumping through the window, for a pool of blood had appeared and the police now believe that soon or later he will be forced to apply for medical treatment for his injuries.

Carries Away Loot

When discovered, the housebreaker had already gathered a considerable quantity of valuable loot which was discovered afterwards, done up in a sack. Had Mrs. McCarthy remained away a few seconds longer, the thief would undoubtedly have finished his daring burglary, and made good his escape.

As it was, he took with him about $50 in miscellaneous articles. Detective Black and De La Guerra are working on the case. They have received the following description of the thief, and feel certain of making a quick arrest: "About six feet in height, smooth face, dark complexion and wearing a light suit."

Louis Hallmeyer Drowns in Estuary

The body of Louis Hallmeyer of 726 Fortuit street, was found today at the foot of Oak street in the waters of the estuary. A son of the deceased, Hubert Hallmeyer, an employee of the Oakland Box Factory, called at the coroner's office this afternoon and identified the body. He says his father had been despondent for some time, threatening to commit suicide on several occasions.

According to the son's story, his father left home every morning at 8 o'clock. It is presumed under the circumstances that the deceased ended his life by jumping into the estuary.

He leaves two sons and two daughters, and was a retired grocer.

'Pop' Van Haltren Joins State League

George Van Haltren, better known as "Pop," the veteran ball player, who was summarily discharged from the Oakland team the other day, will soon don the uniform of the San Francisco club in the State League.

No sooner had the news of his release been made known than Manager Hackett at once opened negotiations with the veteran to join his aggregation of ball tossers. Hackett beat Cy Morring by an hour in trying to secure Van Haltren.

MUST UNDERGO MEDICAL TEST TO GET MARRIED

TACOMA, June 8.—The new marriage law, providing that applicants must undergo medical examination, becomes effective tomorrow. Many couples are taking up licenses now, expecting to hold them for several weeks. Today, however, the prosecuting attorney ruled that if used at all, the licenses must be used at once. The law provides that persons suffering from certain diseases shall not marry, and this he says, must be observed by ministers and other officials. It is expected that a number of wedding will be hastened by this ruling.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC ORDERS $100,000,000 BOND ISSUE

NEW YORK, June 8.—The directors of the Southern Pacific today decided to call for company's preferred stock on July 15 for retirement. The plan calls for the issue of not exceeding $100,000,000 of the 4% per cent convertible bonds. Holders of the stock may receive, therefore, either $111 in cash or $20 in cash and 100 in 4% per cent 21-year debenture bonds, or may elect to accept common stock. The directors at their meeting today authorized the issue of $100,000,000 in 4% twenty years debentures, redeemable after three years at 120.

FALL BUSINESS HERE IS TO BE RECORD BREAKER

Charles G. Monroe, Manager of Taft & Penoyer, Tells of Big Plans Made for His Prosperous Firm.

Charles G. Monroe, general manager of Taft & Penoyer, one of the leading dry goods houses on the Pacific Coast, has just returned home from an extended trip of business observation to Chicago, New York and other large Eastern cities. With his thirty years of experience with the big firm, no man is possessed of a keener power of estimating the trend of business and no citizen of Oakland is more optimistic than he is regarding its future progress and prosperity. He returns from his tour of business observation with the conviction which he previously cherished fully confirmed that Oakland is now big enough and progressive enough to be classed among the leading cities of the country; that it has suffered less from the business depression of the past year than any other big city in the United States, and that it is now facing a period of great business activity and prosperity.

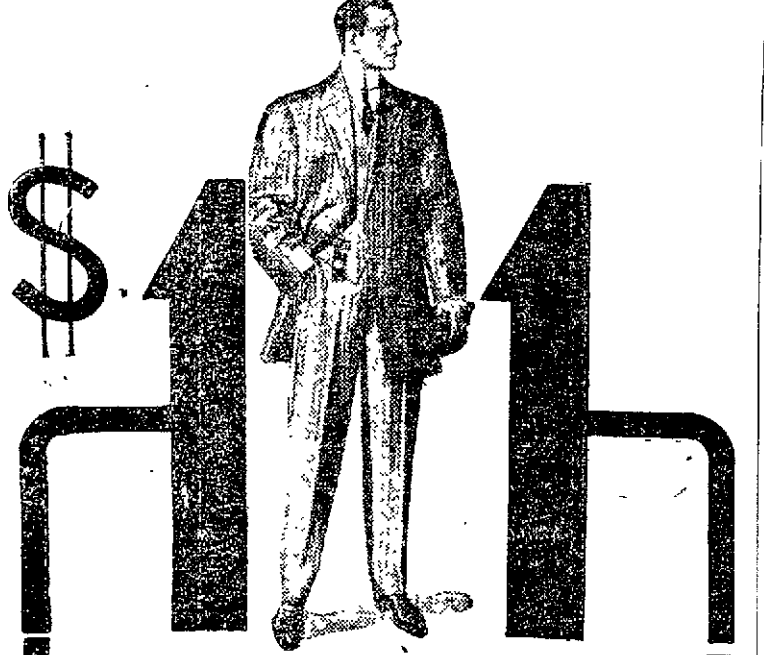

"Nothing can persuade me but that the fall business is going to be a record-breaker," said Mr. Monroe. "Every-thing points that way and everybody believes it. That is largely the secret—everybody believing it. It is no use hiding the fact that business all over the country hasn't been what we would like, but my comparison with other large cities forces me to believe that Oakland has felt the past depression less than any other big city in the United States. In Chicago and New York everybody is talking of the return of big business, and I am heartily with them. Some times it is necessary for a man to get away from his regular surroundings in order to get a correct estimate of his town. My trip was not altogether for the purpose of business, but was largely taken to familiarize myself with all that is best and modern in the biggest stores of the country. We decided long ago that Oakland was big enough to be classed with our sister cities and that anything that favored of progress and growth, no matter how advanced it might appear to be, could be fittingly introduced to Oakland."

Firm's Flourishing Business

"So far as my firm is concerned, we are making a new record for business every day. As evidence of how we are preparing for the fall trade, let me give you a few facts. H. C. Taft is now in Europe searching the art and fashion centers of France, England, Germany and Switzerland for novelties. Mr. Bush, who is in charge of the jewelry, perfume, notions and several allied departments, leaves next week to join Mr. Taft in Paris, his mission being entirely to make heavy purchases of those lines in which we are big importers. Miss Rose, of our millinery, infants' wear, silk shirt and similar departments, will leave in two weeks for New York to complete the fall purchasing in her lines. Miss Foster, head of our department, goes next July. Mrs. Gibbs, of our cloak and suit department, goes on her semi-annual buying tour in two weeks, and Miss Higgins, the head of our millinery department, goes to New York shortly to select her fall stock at the country's headquarters of fashion."

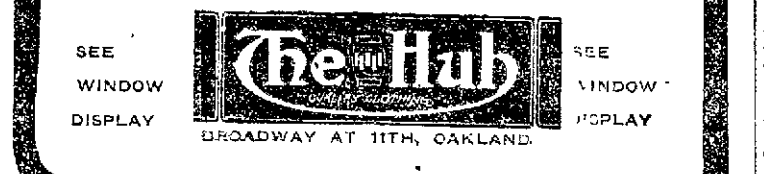

Great Preparations

"You'll see by this that we are making very extensive preparations for an immense fall business, and we are doing it with our eyes wide open, having fully

CALHOUN'S LAWYERS TAKE STRONG EXCEPTION TO JUDGE LAWLOR IN LAUDING PROSECUTOR HENEY

It Is Now Believed the Prosecution Will Complete Giving Testimony This Week—No Witnesses for Defense, as It Is Not Believed State Has Made a Case.

AN FRANCISCO, June 8. — The subdued laughter of Attorney Earl Rogers reflected back on the beaming countenances of some of the jurors, was responsible for one of the funniest arguments and bits of repartee which have thus far occurred in the Calhoun trial. It was at 12:35 p. m., just at the hour of adjournment, when Rogers' risibilities were aroused, and before the row thus precipitated, had cooled, Judge Lawlor had elicited Special Prosecutor Henev and told of his having been stricken down by an assassin's bullet while Attorney Barrett and A. J. Moore claimed that he had insulted the court, and had made statements to his honor which they would never have dared to make.

Henev has adopted a tone toward us of taunting and has thrown into his voice a snarling note which we have never replied to in kind," declared Moore Sr. "We desire to ascribe as misconduct the economy of your honor, that he was shot down in this courtroom, and therefore should receive consideration from the court. For myself I would be afraid to assume toward your honor, looking after the rights of the defendant here, the tone that he has assumed."

End in Sight

Predictions as to the close of the case are many and varied, but it is conceded that the defense will not put in any testimony, their belief being that the district attorney has not made out a case against the president of the United States. It is confidently expected that Henev will conclude his case by Friday, and it is a safe guess that the end of next week will see the conclusion of the proceedings, which will then have lasted over five months.

Gallagher's Niece

Miss Anita Schenck, a niece of James L. Gallagher, the chief of the boodles board of supervisors, was then called to the witness stand.

Defense Henev

Judge Lawlor was plainly angry at this. Henev has never insulted the court," he protested, "that the court has noticed. He is possessed of certain temperamental qualities which must be taken into account."

Allows Exception

Attorney A. A. Moore, who had been quiet throughout this somewhat strenuous round of by-play and three-hour bursts in such rapid succession, had at last had a chance to be taken down by the shorthand reporter, here gave his opinion:

Defense Objects

"Why, I have a perfect right to have an assistant in the district attorney's office to aid me, your honor. This counsel is prepared to throw insinuations regarding the truthfulness of every witness on put on the stand, whether male or female."

Wrote Reports

On being handed another batch of reports, the witness claimed that they had been written by her on the one occasion of her visit to Helms' office. She affirms that she recognized the type-writing, the arrangement and form of the work, and in some instances the names of the jurors concerned.

Russell Summoned

W. H. Russell, brother of the prosecution's main witness, was summoned after the mid-session recess to corroborate the statements of his late partner, Raymond Schindler, who worked with him during the rifting of the offices of Patrick Calhoun and Alphonse Mulally, and was one of the papers in the safes of both officials after they had been cracked by an expert. He told of the segregation of the documents, and the comparison of them made under the direction of the court with originals in Burns' own office.

Left in Auto

The witness elaborated the trip made by the detectives on the day of the search from the time a start was made at the Oakland and Frederick street car barn to the finish of the raid in the Babcock building, which left the company's offices in a badly wrecked state. He declared that

FRACTIONS RISE

Falling last evening from a scaffold, upon which he was working on a building in course of construction, Fred Carlson of 735 Grove street suffered a fracture of the seventh rib on his left side. The injury was reduced at the Receiving Hospital.

Guarded by Henev

Henev was guarding his witness closely and soon entered an objection to the testimony. He was sustained by the court after a long argument in which Rogers declared:

The Safe Cracking

The safe-cracking episode was next gone into in detail, and it was shown that Calhoun's and Mulally's strong boxes and private files had been ransacked. Envelopes had been broken open and accounts and statements perused.

Oakland Elks After $1000 Prize Offered by Grand Lodge

MEMBERS FROM ALL OVER NATION TO HOLD ANNUAL REUNION IN LOS ANGELES

Southern City Plans Splendid Reception and Entertainment for Hundreds of Visiting Lodgemen.

It is less than a month before the Elks will begin to make their pilgrimage to the Grand Lodge reunion, which will open in Los Angeles on July 10. The arrangements for this gathering are complete. Los Angeles is ready to welcome the visitors, and Elks from all over the country are ready to start for the southern metropolis. All that remains to be done is to polish off the plans, arrange some few details, and start.

A few words about the Grand Lodge reunion itself, and then a few words about what Oakland Lodge is doing, and then all that will be left will be to see the special trains leave for the south land and watch to see if Oakland Lodge brings back that coveted first prize of $1000, which is offered for the best drill team that is sent to the reunion.

The Grand Lodge reunion at Los Angeles will be the most important gathering of the Elks that has ever been held, with the possible exception of the Philadelphia convention, at which "Our Harry Melvin" presided as grand exalted ruler. It will certainly be the longest trip that the Elks have ever tried to take for such an event, and if the work of the special Los Angeles committee of arrangements goes for anything, even the famous Philadelphia convention will have to take second place.

Just as soon as Los Angeles was chosen as the place Oakland Lodge was the first one to promise support to the southern city. Los Angeles Lodge chose Morley H. Flint as the general chairman to make these very important arrangements. Mr. Flint is a man of wonderful executive ability. Postmaster of Los Angeles, a leader in the Elks, and, incidentally a brother of United States Senator Flint, the general chairman went right to work.

Do Quick Work

The first thing that has to be done was to provide a home for Los Angeles Lodge of Elks in which that lodge could welcome the visitors. They had a site and they had the money, but they had not begun building. That home is now ready and is one of the finest Elks' buildings in the country. That is how things were done down south.

Then came the making-up of the program for seven days of reunion, seven days that have been crowded full of sight-seeing and amusement for the ordinary visitors and amusement and work for the members of the Grand Lodge.

1000 Autos For Visitors

The special trains will begin to arrive in Los Angeles on Saturday, the 10th of July. Los Angeles Lodge will meet these trains and will see that the visitors reach the places where they are to stay. Sunday, the 11th, more trains will arrive and the Los Angeles boys will be kept going from morning until night. One thousand automobiles have been secured and the visitors will be taken about the city and its suburbs and shown Los Angeles from one end to the other.

Monday has been given over to Pasadena, and the Elks lodge in that city will welcome all visitors. There will be automobile rides about that section, and in the afternoon a barbecue and the famous chariot races that have become a feature of the New Year Rose Festival of that city will be repeated. In the evening the reunion will be formally opened in Los Angeles, the ceremonies to be public.

Theaters Thrown Open

The Grand Lodge will open Tuesday, but those who are not members of that body will go to Santa Monica, where there will be a barbecue and a clam bake. In the evening Los Angeles Lodge has purchased all of the theaters and the visitors will be the guests of the Los Angeles.

Wednesday will be a visit to Long Beach, with all of its attractions, and in the evening there will be a ball at the Hotel Virginia in that city while in Los Angeles the theaters will again be open to the visitors.

The big Elks' parade will take place on Thursday morning. Then it will be that all of the lodges will turn out in their uniforms with the drill teams at their head. There will be a parade of all of the bands at 1 p. m., and in the afternoon the first day of the athletic carnival. The electric parade takes place in the evening. There will be fifteen electrically illuminated floats, and this feature is expected to prove the finest spectacle of the whole week.

Parade of Floats

The morning of Friday will be taken up with a parade which will be composed almost entirely of different floats. In the afternoon more athletic events, the competitive drill of the different marching clubs, band concerts all over the city, Japanese daylight fireworks, and in the evening a repetition of the electrical parade and an invitational ball.

The Grand Lodge members and their ladies will go to Catalina Island Saturday and the rest will go to Arcadia, where the day has been crowded full of events, a barbecue, races, bronco busting, fireworks, vaudeville shows and everything that could make the day a busy one. In the evening the electrical parade will be held for the last time and the reunion will close.

Oakland to Be There

This is what Los Angeles is going to do for the visitors. Oakland Lodge is going to do something of decided importance for its own members, and everyone who fails to go will have a cause for regret in after years. Oakland has had an energetic Los Angeles committee at work for a year. At its head is Max

Horwinski, with Elmer E. Hunt as secretary. This committee has worked long and hard and it has made everything easy for those who wish to go. Hotel accommodations, special trains, uniforms, entertainment, everything has been arranged for. All that the members have to do is to notify Mr. Horwinski or any member of the committee of their desire to attend. They can pick their accommodations at whatever figure they desire, from the most moderate to the most elaborate. An estimate of what the entire trip will cost—fare, hotels and all—is about $60, or about $6 a day, this amount including the uniform that each member is asked to wear in the general parade. The fare is but $14 for the round trip and tickets can be used at any time within thirty days. A special train, or as many special trains as may be necessary, will take the Oaklanders to Los Angeles. This train will start early in the morning from Oakland and will run through to Los Angeles without change and only with the necessary stops, arriving the same evening, thus obviating the necessity for Pullman sleepers.

Upon arrival in Los Angeles rooms will all be ready, so that everyone can retire and be ready for the events next day.

In Charge of Work

Frank M. Prescott has general charge of the accommodations and can be found at the lodge rooms every noon time ready to make reservations. Other members of the committee will attend to this work as a matter of convenience.

This is an event where the ladies are welcome and a large number of the members are going to take their wives and families.

Oakland is going to take a great pride in its drill team, and they are striving for the $1000 first prize that is offered by the Grand Lodge. Oakland was fortunate in having in its membership Colonel J. K. Ritter, one of the best drill masters to be found in the whole country. Colonel Ritter has a record of twenty-seven years in military organizations. For years he has been training just such drill teams as this, and he has handled something like twenty teams that have contested for prizes at national contests. In seven of these cases, Colonel Ritter has carried off the first prize, and this means that the contests were not State or district affairs, but national in their character.

So Colonel Ritter has the necessary experience as a drill master, but he possesses another qualification which has added to the success that the team has achieved. Colonel Ritter is a natural handler of men; he can get the greatest amount of work out of his team; he can inspire enthusiasm and get work and loyalty out of his men. This is the greatest reason why the drill team of Oakland Lodge has been able to keep together and produce results.

Colonel Ritter has many surprises for the lodge members, and if Oakland doesn't win that first prize there will be some very disappointed members.

So Oakland is prepared to make a splendid showing. Little remains to be done except to get the ordinary members in line, and these are coming through very rapidly.

Prominent Members

Oakland owes it to its officers and to its Grand Lodge members to support them with a big turn out. There is Harry Melvin, past grand exalted ruler, who is today the most influential member of the Grand Lodge. There is James M. Shanly of Oakland Lodge, who is the district deputy for Northern California. There is Raymond Benjamin, grand esquire, who, while he is not a member of Oakland Lodge, might just as well be, because his brother, E. H. Benjamin, is one of the popular members of 171. These, and many others, deserve the support of the members of 171, and Oakland should and is going to send down a splendid delegation to Los Angeles.

HEROINE CHARGED WITH BURGLARY

Pasadena Nurse Accused of Stealing Jewels From Burning Building

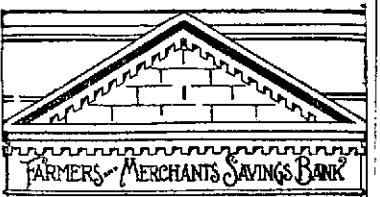

PASADENA, June 8.—Miss Pearl Dubbs, a nurse, was arrested yesterday and is in jail charged with burglary and arson, unable to secure bail of $1000.

Miss Dubbs has been heralded as the heroine of a fire at the residence of Mrs. Helen Kelsey several days ago, when she was reported to have rescued Mrs. Kelsey and her daughter from the flames before the arrival of the firemen or neighbors.

After the fire it was discovered that jewelry and money were missing from the ruins of the home, and Miss Dubbs is suspected of having taken the missing valuables and money. Mrs. Kelsey and her daughter deny that Miss Dubbs rescued them.

AUTO WITH WOMEN IN IT RUNS AWAY

Mrs. W. W. Kergan and Daughter, Mrs. G. Loudon, Have Narrow Escape

Mrs. W. W. Kergan, wife of Dr. Kergan, of 216 Lake Shore Boulevard, and her daughter, Mrs. George Loudon, both prominent socially, had a narrow escape from death yesterday afternoon when their automobile ran away down the steep hill of East Oakland. Mrs. Loudon was driving the machine, and when coming down the incline at Twenty-third avenue the brakes refused to work. The power of the machine was shut off, but the speed in no way lessened.

At the bottom of the hill the auto struck the curb with sufficient force to snap the axle. Mrs. Kergan leaped to the ground and both women were unhurt.

MUSE WOOLERS TO FORM COLONY

Joaquin Miller to Surround Himself With Poets and Other Literary Lights

SAN JOSE, June 8.—Henry Meade Bland, a teacher in the State normal school of this city, and Herbert Bashford have been presented by Joaquin Miller with an acre of land, apple and expect to build cottages near the poet's home at Fruitvale. It is understood that Miller intends to establish a colony of poets about himself and at some time in the future to conduct a school of poetry.

The Pacific Short Story Club, of which Miller is an honorary member, has been informed that a number of men prominent in the literary world on the coast are to be given a plot of land and follow the example of Bland and Bashford.

The concluding exercises for the day will be the annual banquet in the evening, presided over by Judge Lennon, president of the Alumni Association. William A. Kelly, vice-president, Dr. J. C. Coffey, treasurer, and A. L. Burr, of the class of '02, will offer short talks of early days passed in the college.

Election of officers for the following term will take place Monday.

SECURE 1350 ACRES OF WYOMING OIL LAND

LOS ANGELES, June 8.—W. G. Henshaw, president of the Union Savings Bank of Oakland; W. M. Fitzhugh and Messrs. Nichols and Shields, brothers-in-law of Henshaw, have acquired 1350 acres in Big Horn county, Wyo., near the Yellowstone Park, in a small tract of which are three 700-foot wells yielding 150 barrels daily of 40 gravity paraffin oil, according to the information of their past performances. They have been shut in for a year and have flowed some fifteen barrels a day that has leaked through the casing and gone to waste. Tests made since their purchase show them to be good for all that is claimed for them.

David Martin, who resigned recently as superintendent of the Fulton, at Sunset, has been placed in charge and is in Los Angeles to get supplies for further development. This is the nearest point of a severe attack on San Francisco having only branches or agents for companies whose headquarters are here.

The wells were sunk by local people and are the only ones in the region. The nearest town is Baron.

Mr. Henshaw and associates will build a refinery at Cowley on the C. B. & Q. Railroad, and will have the capacity to begin with, to be increased if necessary.

The feature of the athletic games, which provided keen amusement, was the fat men's and fat women's race, in which many applicants considered themselves eligible, who had already entered for the thin persons' contest. Willie Wood, the head official of the games, was kept continually busy regulating these persistent efforts.

The officers in charge of affairs followed: Peter Trolch, past valiant commander; J. Harry Daley, valiant commander; Dennis McMahon, lieutenant commander; James Garnett, treasurer; John A. Barr, orator; F. C. Bonny, recorder; Herman Ipsen, master of ceremonies; Albert Williams, captain of the guard; August Heyermann, tyler.

CONFEDERATE RE-UNION BEING CELEBRATED

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 8.—Today was the first day of the Confederate reunion, and if the town seems crowded yesterday the idea was only a illusion, for the real throng arrived this morning. Trains were strung along for miles awaiting a chance to discharge passengers.

The official program began at 9 o'clock when the lamps around the chief forest monument were dedicated by Mary Latham Chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy. Then at 10 o'clock the reunion began in the Bijou theater.

It Explains the Tonic Treatment for Stomach Trouble That Is Making Such Remarkable Cures.

The processes of digestion are controlled by the blood and nerves. That is why the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills by which the blood is built up, has cured so many cases of stubborn stomach trouble.

Many people are suffering daily from stomach trouble because they cling to old-fashioned methods, eat indigestible foods and in other ways aggravate the disorder they seek to cure. But prejudice must give way before proof such as the cure of Mr. John T. Timmons, a well-known newspaper writer of Cadiz, Ohio, offers. He says:

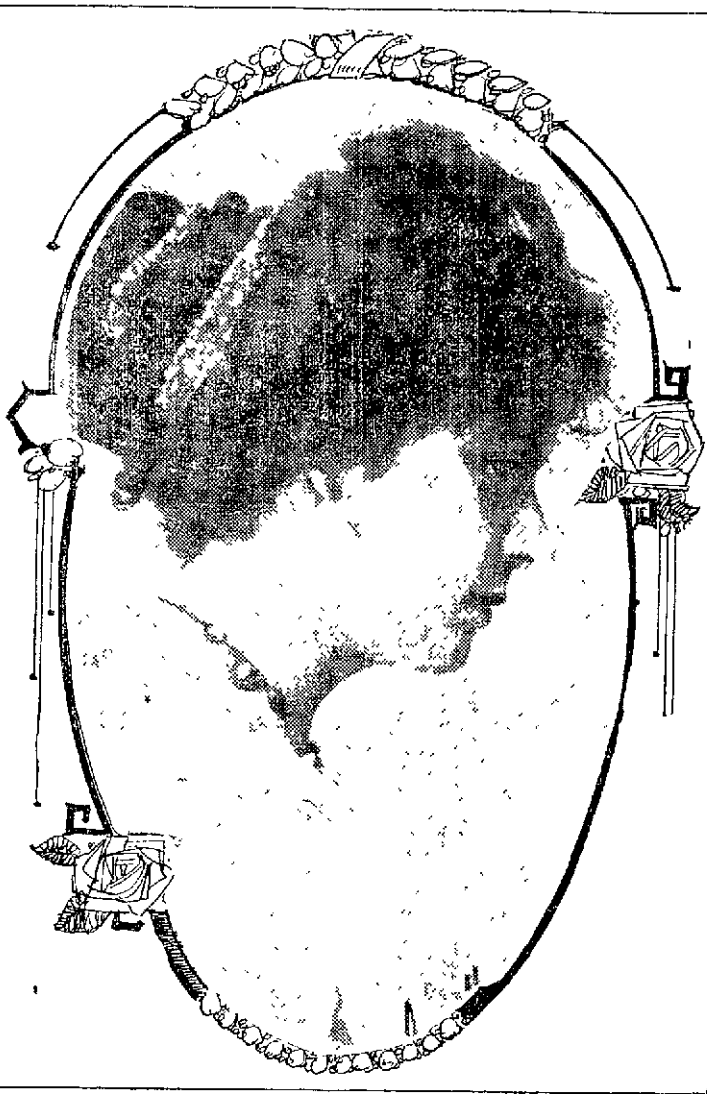

"For ten or more years I suffered severely with dyspepsia and a weak stomach, and in a sense was a burden to myself and others. I was thin and pale, had no ambition, suffered with cramps in my stomach, headache, was constipated and finally my kidneys became affected. My tongue was coated and I had a bad taste in my mouth. I had severe attacks of vomiting, with dreadful pains in my stomach and bowels from which I could get no relief unless I starved myself. Following these attacks I had to eat very light food. My heart was weak and, in going upstairs or exercising, it would beat rapidly and on several occasions caused me to fall. I was under a doctor's care all of the time, but his medicine did not help me. I struggled along in this manner until I became desperate. I tried many remedies, but none gave me any relief, but without gaining any benefit.

"As a last resort I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I saw a change for the better in a very short time, and continued to take the pills, making wonderful improvement until I was completely cured. I now weigh over 200 pounds, while during the last year I suffered I only weighed about 125. I have no stomach or kidney trouble, but suffer from constipation and am the picture of health. I consider I owe my present condition to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

A diet book containing full information about the tonic treatment will be sent free on request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Former Oakland Society Girl Achieves Great Success as Prima Donna in St. Louis

MISS ANN TASKER
Oakland Girl Who Has Attained Great Success on St. Louis Stage.

Miss Ann Tasker, known in Oakland society as Miss Anna Swain, has just completed the first of a fifteen-weeks' engagement as prima donna at the Del Mar Garden Theater in St. Louis, where she has attained wonderful success. Having completed her musical education in New York under the instruction of Miss Mary Alberta Morse, the sister-in-law of Judge Melvin of this city, Miss Tasker was immediately sought by the management of the Del Mar Theater in St. Louis, and completed her first week as Dolores in "Floradora" last Saturday night.

Miss Tasker went to St. Louis unheralded and her dramatic ability and voice were all the more of a surprise to theater-goers and the critics for this reason, and she has now endeared herself to the St. Louis public in the same manner that she did when in musical comedy at Idora Park, under the management of Ferris Hartman.

Miss Tasker created quite a sensation in Oakland two years ago by her wonderful success at the Idora Park Theater, where she commenced as understudy to Miss Sybil Page and later took prima donna roles, to the great delight of the Oakland theater-goers. Her success in the Eastern states was prophesied in THE TRIBUNE at the time that she announced her intention of leaving Oakland for the East, where she has since completed her musical and dramatic education, and has now decided to devote her entire attention to light opera and musical comedy.

Miss Tasker, or Miss Swain, as she was known in her school days at the Oakland High School, is the daughter of A. K. Swain of 1654 First avenue of this city, who is prominently known in commercial life about the bay.

daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivy Lewis Borden, and Paymaster Ellis Collins, U. S. N., will be solemnized at 8:30 o'clock this evening in Trinity Church. The handsome edition has been elaborately decorated in pink blossoms, as has been the Borden home on Davisadero street, where a large reception will follow the church ceremony. Miss Frances Pierce, a charming Georgia girl, whose winning ways have already endeared her to all those fortunate enough to have met her, will be the maid-of-honor, and the bridesmaids are Miss Adelaide Linne and Miss Juliet Borden of Los Angeles. The bride will wear white Duchesse satin, and her attendants will be gowned in pink chiffon. Lieutenant Station, U. S. N., will fill the office of best man at this interesting affair and the ushers will all be brother officers of the groom.

ROBBERS CAUGHT MAKE GETAWAY

Foresight of Thieves in Slipping Key in Lock, Gives Them Liberty

FRUITVALE, June 8.—Surprised while at work in the grocery store of Edward L. Brown, Twenty-seventh avenue and Fourteenth street, two burglars saved themselves by their quick wit and escaped possible capture after robbing the cash register of its contents, a quantity of coppers and telephone slugs.

George Schultz, a clerk in the employ of Brown, went to the store about 8:30 p. m. Sunday night, and upon attempting to enter the place with his latch key, found that the door had been locked from the inside and the key was in the door, which prevented him from turning the lock. Glancing through a window he saw two men dodge behind a bunch of bananas and realized that the place was being robbed. All efforts to break down the door proved unavailing and Schultz rushed to the residence of Brown and informed him of the matter.

Arrive as Robbers Escape

They arrived just after the burglars crawled through the window through which they had entered the place. Brown thus was forced to go through this window to get into the store. They found the stock undisturbed, the burglars evidently having been interrupted before they could accomplish this. The cash register had been emptied before closing up the store Saturday night and consequently the robbers got little for their trouble. They had got into the store by breaking in a window with an ax. With considerable foresight they had slipped the key into the door from the inside, which enabled them to make their get-away through the window.

John Mora, the well known proprietor of the Pioneer Barber shop at East Fourteenth street and Fruitvale avenue, reported yesterday two attempts had been made Sunday night to enter his living apartments by burglars. Mora's appearance on the scene with a revolver frightened the prowlers away.

"The Merry Widow" company will open at the Macdonough Theater on June 25 and continue playing for one week.

NEW CRAFT SOARS AIR SUCCESSFULLY

Tests Made by Becher-Wolf Aeroplane Promise Much to Fitchburg Inventors

FITCHBURG, June 8.—August Becher and Carl Wolf of this place have invented and built an aeroplane with which they have conducted a number of interesting experiments and which they are positive will soar the heavens just like any bird as soon as they have perfected certain details. Although the tests have been made with the utmost privacy they have actually flown in the air a distance of two or three hundred yards without mishap. Their flight might have been indefinite, but for the fact that they have not yet provided a motor for their flying machine and consequently they were compelled to lift upon the wind for their driving and week ago in the hills back of Fitchburg, and was witnessed by a number of residents of the place.

Yesterday Becher and Wolf experimented with their aeroplane in the hills a short distance from the boulevard, and their work was witnessed by a large number of interested automobilists attracted by the unusual sight of the white wings of the air. The inventors contented themselves with experimenting with the "center of gravity." They had constructed a long runway on which the aeroplane was slid into space. The trial yesterday, although not particularly successful from a spectator's point of view, was all that the builders of the machine expected.

Just as soon as the machine can be equipped with a motor and propellers, there is no doubt in the minds of either of the two men that successful and prolonged flight will be accomplished by them.

The aeroplane has been in course of construction for the past several months. Most of the work on the machine has been done at night, as both men work at their trade of mechanics during the day. The utmost secrecy has been maintained about the work and the short but successful flight accomplished by the aviators surprised their immediate neighbors.

The machine, according to those who witnessed the flight, rose gracefully after being launched into the air and maintained a height of fifteen feet for almost 200 yards, finally coming to earth lightly as a bird. Becher, who made the flight, stated at the time that if there had been more wind he could have reached a greater altitude. The machine is much smaller than the Wright brothers' aeroplane, but similar in design.

Reliance, Turf and Charros Clubs Last Organizations to Secure Permits

After granting the Reliance Club, the Turf Club and the Charros Club permits to sell liquor without a license, the city council last night informally decided that hereafter no more permits of the kind would be granted.

Although the social clubs had been carefully investigated there was considerable discussion last night on the floor of the council relative to the Turf Club and the Charros Club. The license committee has recommended them both as being clubs of a purely social nature and not run for profit. There was a disposition to assail the Charros Club particularly, despite the fact that chairman Steffater of the license committee announced that it was composed of business men and was organized for literary and social purposes. Steffater made a heated defense of the committee's recommendation, stating that he thought his word as chairman should be taken as to the standing of the persons connected with the club. In conclusion, Steffater made a smash at the practice of granting any of the clubs a permit.

"I think every organization," said Steffater, "which sells liquor, whether it is a saloon or a club, should pay a license therefor. Personally I am opposed to granting any permits. In fact, my committee has recommended that this practice be discontinued. The three applications before us now are the last ones to be considered."

After a little cross debate the three permits were granted, the council having agreed to heretofore grant no more permits.

WANT BOND ISSUE FOR NEW SEWERS

Elmhurst Sanitary Board Favors Calling Election For This Purpose

ELMHURST, June 8.—The Elmhurst sanitary board, at a meeting last night, adopted a resolution calling for an election for the purpose of deciding whether or not to issue bonds to the extent of $75,000 for the purpose of providing funds to install sewers throughout the district.

Attorney T. S. Gray was instructed to prepare a call for election to be held Saturday, July 10. If the bonds are sold, 70,000 feet of sewers will be laid in the district.

This is the second sewer bond election in Elmhurst, the previous one having taken place last year. The people at that time failed to support the issue, which was lost by a large majority.

Likely to Carry

Since that time the various improvements for the cause of the sewerage and sewers with renewed interest and that the bonds will carry at the coming election is not doubted.

It is the contention of those working for the cause that the future welfare and growth of Elmhurst depends in a great measure upon the success of the coming election, and it is a well known fact that many prospective settlers throughout the district have been kept away by the fact of the inadequate sanitary conditions prevalent at the present time.

Dr. Jordan's Moral Weakness.

President Jordan has made a bad matter worse by making an explanation that does not explain. His assertion that France is a decadent nation was too specific to be misunderstood, besides it was amplified and was enforced by detailed facts all drawn from French history. Moreover, Dr. Jordan has been delivering the same speech that he uttered at Bryn Mawr for more than two years past, and in his book, "The Human Harvest," he holds up France as an awful example of decadence due to war. He should either have stood by his conclusions or have admitted that he was mistaken. He is now in the unfortunate position of a man trying to evade responsibility and endeavoring to placate hostile criticism by futile tergiversation, to call it by a mild name.

A robust regard for the truth is not one of Dr. Jordan's characteristics. This weakness appears to be due more to moral cowardice than anything else. He is a man of fine sensibilities and lofty ideals—in the abstract—but in actual conflict he shrinks from combat and runs away under fire. This exposes him to contempt and ridicule, which is a most unfortunate thing for the head of a great institution of learning. The correspondence relating to the dismissal of Professor Ross from Palo Alto was an unpleasant revelation of Dr. Jordan's moral weakness and his habit of paltering with the truth to evade responsibility and adverse criticism. A second chapter of the same sort was given to the public when the head of the German department was forced to leave Stanford. Such things mar the usefulness of an educator, lessen respect for his character and place his intellectual integrity in doubt. It would be impossible to imagine Dr. Charles W. Eliot, who has just retired from the presidency of Harvard, making such an exhibition of himself. President Eliot weighed his words well before he spoke, and once his convictions were uttered he defended them with a vigor and courage that challenged the admiration of critics and adversaries.

Unfortunately Dr. Jordan's wide scholarship is not characterized by deep thinking or moral intensity. He is too much the popular lecturer to be a sound philosopher. He likes to tickle the ear of the groundlings, and hence some of his so-called scientific theories are sophistical and rhetorical rather than the fruit of thorough investigation. They belong in the same class as the Sunday supplement astronomers.

Nevertheless Dr. Jordan's fine talents would be worthy of more admiration if he were more strenuous in controversy and more courageous in meeting issues raised by himself. A man reveals a fatal defect in his character by contradicting himself as Dr. Jordan has done in the following statements:

France, by her own confession, is a weak and decadent nation.—Jordan's speech at Bryn Mawr.

As a matter of fact, I did not say in so many words that the French are a decadent nation.—Jordan's explanation in Chicago.

And the sequel of it all is the decadence of France.—Jordan's "Human Harvest," page 75.

By enmeshing himself in these contradictions Dr. Jordan has shifted the controversy from the point at issue, namely, the alleged decadence of France, to a question of his personal veracity. His character, not his views, has become the target of criticism. He has evaded an issue of his own making by diverting to himself the imputation of untruthfulness and mental dishonesty. It is to be regretted that the President of Stanford should have placed himself in such a predicament. His plight reflects, unfortunately, on the great university of which he is the head.

Folly of Makeshift Levees.

The breaks which occurred in the latter part of last week in the levees of Kings river, followed by the flooding of a large area of cultivated bottom land in the neighborhood of Hanford, emphasize the folly of building structures for the retention of the flood waters of streams in their natural beds which cannot be trusted. High water in Kings river this year is due to the melting of the big stock of snow which accumulated in the High Sierra during the first three months of the year. The inability of the levees to hold the stream in its channel is, however, due to the fact that through false economy they were not built strong enough at first.

It is costing the farmers in the reclamation districts of the State a vast amount of money to learn that makeshift levees will not accomplish the purpose for which they are built; that it is a wiser policy and more economical to build at the outset a structure that will resist by pressure which the flood waters of the stream that is intended to confine can bring to bear against it, no matter what the cost may be. The flooding of the islands in the San Joaquin delta and the reclamation districts on the banks of the Sacramento river, through the yielding of the levees erected ostensibly to protect them, has destroyed crops growing on the lands inundated which were worth to the farmers over a million dollars, besides putting their farms out of commission for the season and subjecting them to the expense of draining them by pumping and repairing the breaks. If a corresponding amount of money had been spent originally in levee construction on substantial and enduring lines, leaving nothing to chance, the reclaimed lands would have been safe against overflow and the valuable crops which they bore would have been duly harvested. Unquestionably levees can be constructed along the banks of the streams subject to overflow which will protect the land reclaimed as securely as the low lands of Holland are protected by dikes from the encroachments of the North German Ocean.

The law prohibiting the importation of opium into the country which recently went into operation, does not evidently prohibit, for there has been abundant proof elicited of late showing that it has simply been the means of enlarging the operations of the smuggling ring on a broader scale than ever before carried on.

Niles Canyon Boulevard.

As expressed at the meeting of the Board of Supervisors yesterday, public sentiment was unanimously in favor of the construction of a county road through Niles Canyon from Niles to Livermore, which will be on a higher level than the present highway and not subject to washouts. There were present representative citizens from Oakland's Chamber of Commerce, from Pleasanton, Livermore and Niles, and all of them emphatically endorsed the proposition. It received, moreover, the approval of the Chambers of Commerce of Hayward, Centerville, Newark and San Leandro. It is one of those public improvements concerning which there cannot reasonably be any opposition. The present roadway is subject to washouts and interruptions to travel every winter, and the annual expense of repairs up to date has largely exceeded what a permanent roadway reasonably free from such drawbacks would cost.

The proposed new road through Niles canyon will of necessity be required to be something more than a boulevard. The latter is a road structure designed chiefly for light vehicles from which heavy teaming is strictly excluded. But the Niles canyon must serve the double purpose. It must be built with a smooth, well drained surface so that autoists and those riding in light road vehicles can use it as an ordinary boulevard, and at the same time be sufficiently substantial to carry heavy loads without impairment winter or summer, for it must be used as an outlet for the residents of the towns and farms located in the Livermore, Pleasanton and Sanol valleys to haul their produce to market. Such a highway will doubtless cost more than a boulevard built for light traffic only, but, as a public convenience, the expense will be amply justified. The experiments which are being made in oiling the scenic foothill boulevard will doubtless serve as a basis for computing the cost of the Niles roadway. That it should be constructed so that automobiles, as well as heavy teams, may be able to use it in comfort is imperative, so that the greatest benefit may be derived from the scenic beauties of the canyon, which is one of the most picturesque in the State, and properly opened up will attract sightseers from far and wide to visit it. The county treasury is in a condition where, with the aid which the towns most directly interested in it will contribute, it can assume the responsibility of making the improvement without embarrassment.

Great Britain's Defenses.

Lord Roberts' blunt assertion in the House of Lords that the British army is a sham must be taken with as liberal a degree of allowance for exaggeration as Lord Berosford's declaration that the British navy is composed of "ineffectives." Recently reorganization has been undertaken in both branches of Britain's armed forces. The reorganization of the navy has not been in conformity with the plans formulated by Berosford, and such intense friction has grown out of the differences existing between him and the First Lord of the Admiralty regarding the condition of the country's first line of defense that he was recently placed on the retired list and his command—the channel fleet—was added to the newly organized "Home fleet," under the command of Vice-Admiral Sir William May. The "Home fleet" was mobilized to conform with the new plans of the naval defense of the British Isles formed by Admiral Sir John Fisher, whom Berosford intensely hates. Fisher's plans provided for the establishment of new naval stations along the east coast of Britain, and the patrolling of the North Sea by the "Home fleet," which is the largest and most powerful combination of warships ever assembled under the command of one man. And one remarkable feature about its commander, Sir William May, is that while he is recognized as the greatest strategist and most competent officer in the British navy, he has never yet been under fire.

Berosford retired from the service disgruntled, with threats of re-entering parliament in order to expose the rottenness of the navy, and made such sweeping charges that the nation's pride—the fleet—was full of "ineffective" warships that a commission of experts was appointed, with Premier Asquith at its head, to investigate. It recently made the surprising report that the "Lord Nelson" class of battleships was more effective than the "Dreadnought" class, which it was supposed had displaced it. That report had the effect of setting the minds of the British people at rest by restoring public confidence in the efficiency of the navy.

Lord Roberts' pet plan of improving the efficiency of the land forces is by conscription, which has not been attempted since the Napoleonic wars, the government preferring to rely upon voluntary enlistment. Under the present government, the Secretary of the War Office is planning the revival of a volunteer organization something similar to that created when Louis Napoleon III was suspected of intentions to invade Britain, in order to avoid conscription. The gruff old veteran's sweeping charge of a sham army must be taken as his blunt way of whipping the country into his way of thinking as to its military wants, not that he actually believes that the United Kingdom is defenseless.

Now that the new electric lamps are being erected on Seventh street, the necessity is shown for ordering all overhead wires underground on that thoroughfare in order that the fullest degree of efficiency shall be derived from the new system of lighting. When that is accomplished, Seventh street will be thoroughly modernized and become one of the best lighted and most important business streets in Oakland next to those where business has already firmly established itself.

The government of the Australian Commonwealth is the first of the British colonies and dependencies to make a practical acknowledgment to the imperial government of its commercial on the high seas. The acknowledgment of its indebtedness to the British navy for the protection of its commerce is made by formally offering to the imperial government a Dreadnought or a corresponding addition to the navy.

THE WORLD
Still Building
RAILROADS

The Prussian minister of public works has brought its statistics of the railroads of the world down to the end of 1907, and the mileage results are printed in the current issue of the Railroad Age Gazette of New York. The total mileage, exclusive of street and other light railways, is 594,367, divided as follows among the grand divisions of the earth's surface:

Old World.	Miles
Europe	199,353
Asia	128,038
Africa	56,234
Australasia	15,519
New World.	Miles
North America	274,198
South America	28,038
Australasia	34,911
Alaska	17,700

The West Indies, with 274,198 miles, are credited to South America; nevertheless, this leaves North America in possession of nearly one-half of the world's mileage, and some 225,000 of the 268,000 miles in North America are located within our own country.

The world continues to build graded steam transportation lines. North America, chiefly the United States, added some 757 miles to its length of line during the year in question, or about 3 per cent. Europe added 2317 miles or 1 1/2 per cent, of which Russia, still most in need of railroads of any European country, built 1625 miles. France followed with 451 miles and Germany with 411. Of greater importance is the extension of mileage in Asia and Africa—particularly Asia, which still holds one-half of the world's population, and which unquestionably possesses greater stores of untouched natural wealth than any other large area of land on the face of the globe. That continent added 1628 miles during the year, of which 909 were built in British India and 464 in China. This is a large construction for China, and indications are that it will continue at an accelerated pace. The Chinese are now doing the work themselves, and this is more hopeful for its continued and developing progress than as if foreigners were doing it for them and doing it more efficiently. China is not to be brought into the embrace of modern industrial civilization except as the movement enlisted the active participation of the whole Chinese people, and railroad building by those people themselves is a decided indication of such participation.

Africa added 908 miles to its railroad establishment during the year, of which 461 miles were built in the French possessions, 352 miles in British South Africa and 133 miles in Egypt. The 1380 miles added in South America were largely confined to Argentina, which built 534 miles, the West Indies coming next with 132 miles, Peru 115, and Brazil 114. Within ten years the world's railroad mileage has increased by over 22 per cent, while that of Asia has nearly doubled and Africa has gained 65 per cent. What is yet in store for those two continents in railroad construction no one will dare to predict. The world's investment in railroads is now placed at approximately $50,000,000,000, which would be some $32 per capita—reckoning the world's population at 1,553,100,000. In the United States the per capita railroad investment is nearly $200. The extension of railroad transportation is more than a measure of a country's or the world's industrial development; it is an index also of progress in the attainment of a common and humane civilization among the various nations and peoples, and an assurance of the passing of those conditions of race ignorance and prejudice which have been so provocative of war.—Springfield Republican.

Reflections of a Bachelor

The reason a man might as well make love to a girl is she thinks he is doing it, anyhow.

A man couldn't be good-humored at breakfast if he could make a lot of money that way.

The first thing a man who gets some money tries to do is to show how smart he is at something in which he will lose it.

The thing that appeals to a woman about neighborhood scandal is how she can believe it's true when she knows it isn't.

Editorial Comment From Press of the Country

AFFECTING OTHER STATES.
If the negroes can be driven off the railroads they can be driven out of other employment and in the end there will be little left for them to do. If they cannot work on the railroads in Georgia other Southern States will soon follow that example. It appears at a glance that it is a very big and broad question affecting not one but all the Southern States.—Utica Press.

MUCH TO ANSWER FOR.
It is the people of Georgia who are affected, and they have been taking an active hand in the dispute. But it is pertinent to point to the existing conditions as an illustration of the many discomforts that flow from industrial warfare in its extreme manifestations. Whoever is in the wrong has much to answer for.—Pittsburg Gazette Times.

HIGH PRICE FOR PEACE.
It appears that the Georgia Central Railroad has procured insurance from acts of violence by the simple method of abandoning its business. No trains were run today; consequently no operatives were shot, stoned or clubbed and no tracks were torn up or engines crippled. To avoid acts of violence the railroad company has only to tie up its service and make no attempt to move its trains. Isn't the price of peace rather high?—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

COMMUNITIES RESPONSIBLE.
Since the Georgia railroad is unable to operate and the Farmers' Union threatens a sympathetic strike in event the Georgia's freight is taken by other lines to transport, the communities along the line find themselves in a state of siege.

After a generation of remarkable increase of metropolitan population the German cities have halted. Berlin, which for years has been growing like boom cities in the West, showed a loss of population last year. Nuremberg, the most prosperous city in Germany, gained only 4,500 in 1908. Thus far in 1909 the wage-earning population of Nuremberg has been on the decline.

A desperado down in San Antonio lived only a short time after breaking a $1,500 plate glass mirror. Concerning Royalty

King Alfonso as the light-hearted jester we know, and we know him, too, as the proud father, as the enthusiastic motorist, and even as the would-be aeronaut, only restrained from flight by his promise to the Queen. In each character, it must be added, we love him. But here is a new side to his character. Here is Alfonso, King of Spain, at his desk, directing affairs of State. Behind all his love of laughter and adventure there is a very serious side to the young King. He realizes that the opportunity is his to regenerate a once-great and still proud power, which has suffered decline through centuries of faulty government and consequent revolutionary troubles. He has splendid material to work on, both in the character of a great part of his people, and in the material resources of his country. Fearless, energetic and imbued with modern ideas, he is likely to succeed in his arduous task, and the best wishes of this country, which has so

It is said that the prejudice which exists against horse flesh rests, to some extent, on a religious basis. The missionaries who converted the Saxons prohibited the consumption of this food, as being reminiscent of heathen sacrifices and feasts. Quatrefage tells that "the Saxons usually celebrated any religious festival by a massacre of their forefathers by a massacre of the priests and a banquet of horse flesh, both held on the same day." Gregory III wrote to St. Boniface in 731: "I am told that some of your flock still eat the flesh of the wild horse, and most of them eat the flesh of their own horses when these are killed. Henceforward, most holy brother, this must not be allowed. Use every possible means to abolish this custom, and impose a heavy penance on all devourers of horse flesh. They are unclean, and their conduct is execrable."

Where the West Begins

A picturesque figure has disappeared from the scene in Abdul Karim, the late Queen's Indian Secretary and teacher in Hindustani. He was a Mohammedan of Northern India, whose learning entitled him to the prefix of "Munshi." Nominally, the Munshi occupied the position of Groom of the Chamber. The late Queen's lessons in the language of her Indian Empire did not begin till her Jubilee year, 1887, and she did not make very great progress in the study. Still, it was a notable effort for a woman of sixty-eight, and won much enthusiasm among the people of the Eastern Empire. There is a certain lack of variety in the names of Mussulmans. That of Abdul Karim was borne also by the first Turkish Commander-in-Chief in Europe in the Russo-Turkish war of 1877.—London Graphic.

GILLETT FORCES LAUCK TO QUIT MILL OFFICER'S HOME

Governor Insists That Militia Commander Maintain Neutrality During Strike, Even to Appearances.

Adjutant-General John B. Lauck, McCloud: Morning papers state you are domiciled at the company official's residence. I sincerely hope this is not true. Reply immediately.

(Signed) JAMES N. GILLET.

Governor Gillett later gave out the following written statement at Sacramento:

"I was advised today by newspaper reports that General Lauck had established headquarters in Mr. Queal's home, and that Mr. Queal was also occupying the same place. I thought this very ill-advised, if true, and telegraphed General Lauck about it and he replied that it was so and stated that all of the property and buildings at McCloud belonged to the company and that he desired to be near both the telegraph and telephone offices.

"Still believing that he should not occupy the same house with Mr. Queal, and that neither side should be in a position to ask or expect favors from him, I sent word to him to move out and establish his headquarters elsewhere.

"I believe what General Lauck did was purely an oversight on his part."

SACRAMENTO, June 8.—Adjutant-General Lauck will have to sleep in a tent with the rest of his command of National Guard now in the field as a consequence of the strike of the men in the employ of the McCloud River Lumber Company at McCloud, or rather from the scene and turn over the command of the Guard to the next in rank.

That is the order of Governor Gillett and there is no doubt what the effect of disobedience on the part of the general would be.

That order was issued yesterday but there was another one sent indirectly to the general last night which was not couched in a formal message. It was a verbal instruction to a mutual friend of the governor and the general that the latter had better find other quarters. In conversation with THE TRIBUNE correspondent today, the governor was asked for a copy of the message which he had last night forwarded to the general, and the reply was:

"I did not send a message to the general last night. There was no formal message. It was a verbal statement to a friend of the general to the effect that he had better move out of the quarters of President Queal and find some other place to stop in."

"Under what penalty for failure to comply with the suggestion?" asked the correspondent.

"No Penalty Specified"

"There was no penalty specified" was the governor's answer.

"The general selected the Queal place, he says, because he could have the convenience of telephone and telegraph. He could not have run in his own telephone and telegraph through his signal corps," inquired the correspondent.

"Most assuredly," said the governor, "that ought to have been done. The general should have been with his command."

"Have you heard from the general this morning—do you know whether or not the general has changed his quarters?"

"I have not heard from General Lauck this morning, but I am inclined to think that the general has found other quarters," declared Gillett.

Just as soon as the governor learned the adjutant-general had taken up his abode with President Queal, his grasp of the situation caused him to perceive that the state was apparently committed to one side of the controversy or, at least, there was a possibility of that construction being given to it, and this impelled Gillett to wire Lauck immediately.

Lauck's Admission

Lauck's admission is as follows: "I have lived at President Queal's residence and made by headquarters there because of the mechanical conveniences so necessary to a person in the position in which I am placed here. I must telephone and telegraph in entire secrecy, day and night, and at Mr. Queal's home I had a private telephone, with which I could send a message to the telegraph office or receive one."

"Then there are rooms there where I can receive without publicity both the strikers' representatives and those of the company. Of course, if Governor

FLORENCE STULTZ

MELROSE, June 8.—Sixteen miles in one afternoon is a good "hike," even for a trained athlete. Little Florence Stultz, the seven-year-old daughter of H. Stultz, 1415 14th street, walked without tiring, and with no apparent effort, to the San Leandro Cherry Carnival, and not having the necessary car fare she struck out in the direction in which she saw the crowded cars traveling. She reached her destination, saw the decorations, viewed the wonders of the Midway Plaisance, and then she walked back home, where she arrived unharmed from her long journey, a distance approximately of sixteen miles.

Carries Souvenirs

During her absence her anxious mother searched vainly for her and even engaged the services of a constable. Not once did the possibility of the little one visiting the great carnival enter her mind. At 6:30 p. m. the little athlete sauntered home bearing a huge branch loaded with San Leandro cherries, and decorated with the badges and decorations of the carnival bestowed upon her by chance friends, attracted by her youth and independence.

"I just wanted to see the carnival and get some cherries," the little girl said, as she greeted her almost prostrated parent.

Florence is not large for her age, and she is exceedingly slight; yet she performed a "stunt" nearly a grown man, in good health could not have accomplished with the same ease as did this little miss. Her feat is attracting a great deal of attention among the residents of the community where she lives.

NO FOREST FIRE AROUND M'CLOUD

Reports of Incendiary Blazes at Lumber Camp Are Without Foundation

SACRAMENTO, June 8.—Advises received here this morning say that the reports of alleged destructive fires endangering the powder magazine and the plant of the McCloud River Lumber Co. and even the town of McCloud itself, which have been in circulation for the past dozen hours, are entirely without foundation.

There is a fire on some of the company's property, it is true, but it is miles away from the scene of the present struggle between the McCloud Lumber Company and the strikers. Neither is this fire to be ascribed to incendiarism and, supposedly, to the Italians who are now out on strike. It has been in progress for weeks and weeks and was started under the direction of the company itself. It was started for the purpose of clearing the land owned by the company denuded of timber and enabling reforestation to take place.

He will be back in time to re-enter college at the next semester.

CLUB WOMEN TO AID IN WAR ON PHTHISIS

Anti-Tuberculosis Society Plans General Campaign of Education

DISCUSS METHODS OF FIGHTING DISEASE

Mrs. J. B. Hume Pledges Support of California Clubs She Represents

The directors of the Alameda County Society for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis held a special meeting last night in the Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of discussing proper methods for fighting the disease.

President C. A. Milliken, who presided, explained in a general manner the inadequacy of the existing conditions for the proper care of tuberculosis patients in both private and public hospitals of the county, and that in order to rectify all such defective circumstances, a thorough understanding of the dangers of such cases must be obtained.

President C. A. Dukes of the board of health, promised the assistance of his department to the society. He admitted that the city ordinances passed in 1902 with reference to the fumigation of premises occupied by tuberculosis patients, had not been enforced, but that this was the result of physicians not reporting cases. He concluded by saying forth to enforce a prompt report of tuberculosis to the city bacteriologist, who must, within twenty-four hours, render a decision.

To Teach Children

Dr. E. N. Ewer, health officer, recommended the teaching of methods of preventing tuberculosis in the public schools, in order that any ignorance with reference to prevailing symptoms, may be overcome by the pupils and thus save not only time, but possibly a severe contagion.

Dr. L. P. Adams, president of the Alameda County Medical Association, emphasized the fact that education of the public in general was the keynote of a successful accomplishment of their campaign, and that resulting from this would be a more efficient provision for the care of patients, not only with reference to proper attention, but also with regard to more revivable quarters.

Dr. A. S. Kelly, one of the three physicians on the board of education, stated that at their last meeting they had succeeded in establishing a department of school hygiene and that Dr. M. K. Tokar had been appointed inspector for the purpose of examining pupils of the public schools at any time and reporting any defects to the respective parents, but not to give treatments.

Women's Clubs to Aid

Rev. Clifton Macon pledged the cooperation of Trinity church in connection with the movement, as did also Mrs. J. E. Hume, president of the California Federation of Women's club, promise the assistance of the many organizations of which she is leader.

Dr. E. Von Adelung was the concluding speaker for the evening, recommending a thorough overhauling of the police infirmary in order that more tents and nurses be provided.

Those attending the meeting follow: A. F. Brown, A. A. C. A. Alexander, W. B. Hibbard, C. W. Page, A. S. Kelly, C. N. Ewer, J. M. Smith, L. E. Webster, L. P. Adams, N. J. Wilson, R. A. Meadors, G. J. C. Rev. C. Macon, C. A. Dukes, W. S. Peters, E. Von Adelung, K. A. Milliken, Miss Mary McCloud, Mrs. Peters, Mrs. E. A. Majors, Mrs. C. E. Nelson, Mrs. J. B. Hume, Miss Mary Page, Mrs. E. S. Page.

RIOTERS HELD IN HEAVY BAIL

Constable Palmer, Beaten at Martinez, Appears to Press Charges

MARTINEZ, June 8.—The nine picketers arrested in connection with the riot at the depot in this city on Sunday night, during which Constable Palmer was badly beaten, were arraigned in the police court this morning and held in heavy bail for trial the latter part of the month. The statement that one of the men would probably die from his injuries and that Constable Palmer was fatally injured is entirely without foundation.

This morning Constable Palmer was in court, swathed in bandages, to press the charges against the prisoners. His nose was crushed and he has two severe scalp wounds. Considerable credit is due Deputy Sheriff's Daley and Jones for the prompt and brave manner in which they worked for Palmer's rescue during the riot. But for them Palmer himself admits he would probably have been killed.

The Garibaldi Guards, of which the prisoners are members, held their annual picnic at Bay View Park near Martinez. Constable Palmer quailed. At night, when Palmer attempted to stop it, he was assaulted by a crowd of a hundred men. The men under arrest are Jack Pogue, Ed Castello, B. Cosini, W. King, D. Getteli, V. Costello, A. Carelli, Joe Careghino and

The patrolman had only been married a few months, and the shock of his death has prostrated the widow.

MONEY KING TO MARRY TEACHER

Ivan Treadwell Will Make His Foreman's Daughter His Bride

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—The realization of a charming romance extending over several years, is announced in the engagement of Ivan G. Treadwell, multi-millionaire, mine operator and property owner, and Miss Lillian May Lawrence, daughter of the foreman of his estate, near San Jose. Miss Lawrence, who is a teacher in the East San Jose grammar school, has resigned her position and it is understood the wedding is to be next month.

Treadwell is the owner of hundreds of acres of land southeast of San Jose, which he inherited from his father, the late millionaire, James P. Treadwell. He grew up on his father's beautiful country home and after the latter's death engaged the services of James Lawrence to look after the estate.

The daughter was then but a little girl. Later Treadwell went abroad and married. His wife died a year ago, and returning home he found Miss Lillian grown, and very attractive. An ardent courtship followed with the result that next month the little school teacher will become the millionaire's bride.

The proceeds of the entertainment will be used towards paying off the debt on a piano, which has lately been installed in the armory.

This will be the last entertainment to be given before the annual encampment of the Cadet Corps.

In the committee of arrangements are Herbert E. Bonham, Wendell P. Porter, Charles R. Allen and Roland H. Springer. Those who will participate in the play are Miss Bonnie Overall, Miss Porter, Miss Carmelita Cavalieri, Wendell P. Porter, Charles R. Allen, Edward Rasmussen and H. Renwick.

AGED MAN WALKS 97 MILES IN DAY

DENVER, June 8.—Battling against rainstorm and muddy roads, Sergeant John Walsh, the 57-year-old pedestrian who proposes to outstrip Edward Payson Weston in his walk to the coast, arrived in Denver last night, after having walked 97 miles yesterday. He was welcomed by a detachment of soldiers from Fort Logan.

Walsh left Boston April 5 and declares he already has gained 600 miles on his 71-year-old rival.

Walsh asserts he will overtake Weston before the latter leaves Salt Lake City.

FOUR DROWN AS AUTO FALLS IN RIVER

Prominent Women of Woodland Lose Their Lives in Terrible Accident

MACHINE BACKS OVER BANK INTO SACRAMENTO

Postmaster Loses His Wife, Daughter, Sister and Sister-in-Law

THE DROWNED:

MRS. W. F. NIXON, wife of editor of Woodland Mail.

MRS. J. H. DUNGAN, wife of postmaster of Woodland and sister-in-law of Mrs. Nixon.

MERLE DUNGAN, aged 14, daughter of postmaster.

MISS JULIA DUNGAN of San Francisco, sister of postmaster.

ESCAPED DEATH:

JOE ARMSTRONG, Woodland Mail carrier, who acted as chauffeur.

WOODLAND, Cal., June 8.—Up to noon today the bodies of only two of the victims of the fatal auto accident at Knights Landing last night have been recovered—those of Mrs. Julia Dungan, sister of Postmaster Dungan, and Merle, his daughter. The former was taken from beneath the rear seat of the automobile. Every effort is being made to find the remains of Mrs. Dungan and Mrs. Nixon, her sister, the other occupants of the car who perished.

Scores See Accident

The accident occurred shortly after 9 o'clock last night in the presence of scores of persons standing in front of the stores of the main street of Knights Landing; but though immediate rescue was at hand, it was of no avail.

The car was driven by Joe Armstrong, a letter carrier of Woodland. He had made a trip from Woodland to Knights Landing without mishap and was turning his machine in the street with the intention of returning home, when he lost control of it and it started to back over the embankment.

Auto Turns Turtle

The screams of the terrified women as they gazed at the precipitous drop of twenty feet and at the rushing waters below them drew the attention of the spectators. A general rush was made toward the automobile, but before the first of the rescuers could arrive on the spot, it overbalanced, turning turtle as it fell.

The cries of the horror-stricken women were cut short. For one horrible second there was a deathlike silence and then the car struck the waters.

Of the women no trace could be seen. Armstrong, as the machine toppled over the embankment, leaped blindly and struck the water, safe from the plunging car. The river swung him around, but he exerted every ounce of strength he possessed to keep himself afloat, and finally succeeded in grasping the edges of a gasoline launch, to which he clung till rescued.

MARRIES SON'S MOTHER-IN-LAW

Mrs. C. Meyerstein Becomes Stepmother to Daughter's Husband

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8. — Through a secret marriage at San Jose, Caesar Meyerstein, manager of the Union Paper Box company's local factory, became the husband of the mother-in-law of his millionaire son, Attorney Joseph C. Meyerstein, 3518 Octavia street.

The marriage, which makes Mrs. Caesar Meyerstein the stepmother as well as the mother-in-law of the attorney, was announced here yesterday upon the return of the bride and groom from the Garden City and just prior to their departure for a honeymoon in Southern California.

Secret Wedding

Joseph C. Meyerstein's marriage brought about the subsequent romance, for it was at the attorney's home that the elder Meyerstein first met the woman who now bears the double relationship to his son.

Cesar Meyerstein and Mrs. Gardner-Meyerstein lived at the home of the younger Meyerstein. They were thrown much together and the seeds of romance fell upon good soil. The romance grew until it blossomed into Thursday's secret wedding.

The announcement of the marriage came as a surprise to the friends of both the elder and the younger Meyerstein. So closely had the love of the parents of the Joseph Meyersteins been guarded that none knew even that they were engaged.

The visit to San Jose had all the romance of an elopement, though the groom confesses the age of sixty-six and the bride is fifty. They keenly enjoyed the surprise given their friends by yesterday's announcement.

The groom has long been prominent in business affairs in this city. The son, Joseph C. Meyerstein is one of San Francisco's successful attorneys and is reputed to be worth several million dollars.

TAFT WILL OPEN PORTOLA FETE

President Announces He Will Be in San Francisco on October 19th

WASHINGTON, June 8. — Announcement was made at the White House that President Taft will open the Portola festival on October 19th. This news was given out in person to Robert A. Hoar Jr., Special Commissioner of the Festival Committee, who was presented to the President by Senator Flint.

San Francisco is to be congratulated on her securing the presence of the President for the great jubilee. Up to this time it was supposed that the numerous engagements already made for the President during the late summer and early fall would make it impossible for him to reach the city of the Golden Gate at the time of the festival.

The President has modified his plans within the last few days by abandoning the trip to Alaska. This was done on account of the health of Mrs. Taft, who has been advised by her physician against taking a long journey.

The President and Mrs. Taft, however, will attend the Alaska-Yukon exposition at Seattle and time their visit so as to reach San Francisco on October 19.

The idea of the national feast to be drunk at noon on the day all over the world has caught the fancy of the President.

He promised Senator Flint and Mr. Roosevelt yesterday that he would himself compose the toast and give it to Senator Flint within a day or two. This will give ample time for its dissemination all over the world in order that every one, everywhere, may familiarize themselves with it and be prepared to use it at the decisive moment.

BATTLE AGAINST CHANGE IN RATES

Eastern Cities Join Fight Urged on by William R. Wheeler

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 8.—William R. Wheeler, traffic manager for the San Francisco Merchants' Exchange, is in Washington to appear before the Interstate Commerce Commission in opposition to the proposal of mixed railroads to establish new rates which are intended to destroy the advantage of water competition enjoyed by Atlantic and Pacific ports. Intense interest has been aroused in this subject since the whole effect of the commission's ruling in the Spokane case began to dawn upon the coast terminals. They are threatened with the extinction of their distributing business, which will be centered at Chicago and other inland points if the plans of the railroads are successful.

Wheeler visited Boston, New York and Philadelphia last week and yesterday he visited Baltimore, addressing commercial bodies and pointing out to them the identity of their interests with those of San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland, Seattle and Tacoma, as coast terminals. He was very successful in stirring up interest, and at Wednesday's hearing representatives from those cities will be on hand to combat the plan of the inland roads. The most strenuously contested fight yet referred to by the Interstate Commerce Commission is in prospect on the question whether the transcontinental terminals east and west shall retain their natural advantage of competing for freight rates or whether inland cities like Chicago shall absorb all the distributing business of those terminals up to the very banks of the Hudson and Sacramento rivers.

$10,000 FOR LAKE MERRITT DAM

Council Proposes to appropriate Money for Twelfth Street Improvement

On the recommendation of City Engineer Turner an ordinance was introduced last night appropriating $10,000 to improve the Twelfth street dam. This will only be preliminary to other appropriations that will be made in the next two years. It is the intention of the Council and the Board of Public Works to make Twelfth street, near the lake, one of the beauty spots of the city by means of various adornments. The streets leading on to the dam and the park south of the Twelfth street dam will be ornamented and beautified. The $10,000 will be used in elevating the grade of Twelfth street and making a foundation which may be used in the future to bring Twelfth street up to the level of the park. The ordinance was referred to the ordinance and judiciary committee by Chairman Elliot pro tem.

'GRAFT PROSECUTION BORN OF SPITE.'—J. D. SPRECKELS Declares Brother Rudolph Started Movement to Secure Revenge on Head of United Railroads.

NEW YORK, June 8.—Characterizing his brother Rudolph's earliest interest in the San Francisco graft prosecution as being induced by a "spite movement," John D. Spreckels, proprietor of the San Francisco Call, yesterday gave the "Evening Sun" an interview, in which he discussed at some length the beginning and subsequent course of the prosecution. He concluded his expressions of opinion by asserting his belief that as the prosecution had settled down to specific matters, he expected good results from the Calhoun trial and from the Ruef case when it comes up on appeal.

Wants to Run Cars

"Rudolph and I both built homes on Pacific avenue," said Mr. Spreckels. "We built homes that we thought would ornament the city as well as to make residences for ourselves. Now, when Calhoun appeared before the Supervisors with a demand for trolley franchises on Pacific avenue, that put it into my brother's head to go into the traction business himself. My brother wanted to demonstrate to the people of San Francisco that street cars could be run with underground power, just as you run them here on overhead wires. Nobody on Pacific avenue wanted the trolley lines and all the people had joined in a petition against them. But just after the earthquake Calhoun got what he wanted, in the full of the sentiment caused by the fact that the people needed transportation so badly that they would take anything in that line. And Calhoun saw to it that they took his ugly trolley wires. I guess that started Rudolph to work on a spite movement, and I thought it would be a good thing all round to clean the situation up and expose the graft system. Rudolph it was who got in touch with Heney. Somebody recommended Heney to him."

"The Trouble With Heney"

Continuing the narrative, Mr. Spreckels went on to say that "the trouble with Heney was that at one time in his career he had undertaken or promised of an indictment against every wrongdoer on the Coast of whom he or the public had heard. At one time indictments were promised against officers of the Southern Pacific and against the gas company and the telephone company and their officers. Now these people take to it that they took his ugly trolley wires."

together for their own protection. The leagues became one of enormous strength because of its political connections. Heney could have done much better by clinging to Schmitz and Ruef until they were locked away from political help. "It came out, to begin with, that Ruef had threatened to take the doors off the upstairs booths of the French restaurants," continued Mr. Spreckels, "unless the put up $20,000, and there was circumstantial evidence enough to prove that Ruef had stood them up for this amount. When this was out it was the beginning of the whole investigation business. Then the charge was made that Calhoun had paid $200,000 for the privilege of disfiguring San Francisco's streets with his unsightly trolley lines and that Ruef was the man through whom he had dealt."

"Now that the case has settled down to these specific matters, I expect good results from the Calhoun trial and from the Ruef case when it is finally heard on Ruef's appeal. I do not believe the Southern Pacific is involved or that it will ever be successfully dragged in by Heney."

Fight With Joe Crockett

"Didn't your father in his day do a good deal of fighting to make good a promise to the Pacific Union Club to fight Joe Crockett of the San Francisco Gas and Electric Light Company, that he would run him out of business if he did not quit smoking up the Claus building Building from his Stevenson street power house?" Mr. Spreckels was asked.

"Yes, he did," replied the son of the first Spreckels on the Coast. "Father never did like the way that gas company's chimney enveloped his building in smoke. It filled all the crevices with smoke and soot and dirtied the office. So father wrote a note about it. And the company ignored the note. Then he wrote another, through an attorney and the company ignored that too. Finally father met Joe Crockett in the Pacific Union Club, and while Crockett was thirty years or so his junior, he told father he would have to come around to his office if he wanted to talk business. "The next day the Independent Light and Power Company was launched and father kept spreading its system until Joe Crockett put in a smoke consumer. Then he sold the system to another company, as he had no desire to be in the gas business steady, you know."

SLOT MACHINES MUST GO OCT.

City Council Passes to Print Ordinance Abolishing Gambling Device

All hope was abandoned by the retail cigar dealers last night when the City Council read the proposed nickel-in-the-slot ordinance a second time and passed it to print unanimously, with the exception of the votes of Councilmen Bacus and Stachler. There was one amendment to the ordinance, setting the time for the abolition of the machines for October 1 instead of July 1, as originally intended by Councilman Cobbledick, who introduced the ordinance. Councilman Bacus, in explaining his vote, stated that as he had introduced the ordinance that was being repealed, and as it had produced $26,000 revenue for the city per year, he thought it was unwise to change the present law.

"To be consistent with my previous action," said Bacus, "I will have to vote 'no' on the new ordinance. We all thought the ordinance that is now being repealed good when we passed it and I have no reason for changing my opinion now."

The proposed ordinance, which will be finally passed next Monday night, to take effect October 1, prohibits every kind of gambling devices in the way of slot machines.

BLOODHOUNDS USED TO TRAIL ASSASSINS

LEXINGTON, Ky., June 8.—Callahan, the fugitive, who was shot yesterday when enemies attempted to assassinate his entire family in Braxton county, was still alive early today, but he is paralyzed from the waist down and likely to die at any time. No captures have been made, although bloodhounds have been trailing the men from the place of ambush all night. Members of the Callahan clan are said to be gathering at his house and reopening of feud troubles is expected.

"Yes, he did," replied the son of the first Spreckels on the Coast. "Father never did like the way that gas company's chimney enveloped his building in smoke. It filled all the crevices with smoke and soot and dirtied the offices. So father wrote a note about it. And the company ignored the note. Then he wrote another, through an attorney and the company ignored that too. Finally father met Joe Crockett in the Pacific Union Club, and while Crockett was thirty years or so his junior, he told father he would have to come around to his office if he wanted to talk business."

"The next day the Independent Light and Power Company was launched and father kept spreading its system until Joe Crockett put in a smoke consumer. Then he sold the system to another company, as he had no desire to be in the gas business steady, you know."

unwise to change the present law.

"To be consistent with my previous action," said Baccus, "I will have to vote 'no' on the new ordinance. We all thought the ordinance that is now being repealed good when we passed it and I have seen no reason for changing my opinion now."

The proposed ordinance, which will be finally passed next Monday night, to take effect October 1, prohibits every kind of gambling devices in the way of slot machines.

It is almost certain that one-third of the cigar stands in the city will be closed down by the operation of the new ordinance.

SLOT MACHINES MUST GO OCT.

City Council Passes to Print Ordinance Abolishing Gambling Device

All hope was abandoned by the retail cigar dealers last night when the City Council read the proposed nickel-in-the-slot ordinance a second time and passed it to print unanimously, with the exception of the votes of Councilmen Baccus and Stachler. There was one amendment to the ordinance, setting the time for the abolition of the machines for October 1 instead of July 1, as originally intended by Councilman Cobbleick, who introduced the ordinance.

Councilman Baccus, in explaining his vote, stated that as he had introduced the ordinance that was being repealed and as it had produced $36,000 revenue for the city per year, he thought it was

Put Forward as Candidate of Republicans for San Francisco's Mayor

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—As the result of a meeting of Republicans in Judge Graham's courtroom last night, James Rolph Jr. will be asked to accept the nomination of the county committee as candidate for Mayor of this city.

That action was taken by a quorum of the whole committee representing the ten largest assembly districts and more than Notice of the formal action of the Republican governing body will be given Rolph by a special committee of nine county committeemen and F. M. Danahy, in the absence of Worthington, declared to be chairman by the supreme court, presided at last night's meeting.

When Danahy called the county committee to order the following eighteen members were present:

James J. Kelly, John J. Cass, Jerry Lacey, Thomas Nolan, J. C. Welsh, John Butler, John T. Fitch, Robert Stewart, George Kammerer, John D. Daly, Samuel A. Clark, F. H. Danahy, Thomas McGee, William H. Hazel, M. E. Gates, Marshall Hall, Ralph L. Hathorn, Percy Newberry.

BATTLE AGAINST CHANGE IN RATES

Eastern Cities Join Fight Urged on by William R. Wheeler

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 8.—William R. Wheeler, traffic manager for the San Francisco Merchants' Exchange, is in Washington to appear before the Interstate Commerce commission in opposition to the proposal of inland railroads to establish new rates which are intended to destroy the advantage of water competition enjoyed by Atlantic and Pacific ports.

Intense interest has been aroused in this subject since the whole effect of the commission's ruling in the Spokane case began to dawn upon the coast terminals. They are threatened with the extinction of their distributing business, which will be centered at Chicago and other inland points if the plans of the railroads are successful.

Wheeler visited Boston, New York and Philadelphia last week and yesterday he visited Baltimore, addressing commercial bodies and pointing out to them the identity of their interests with those of San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland, Seattle and Tacoma, as coast terminals. He was very successful in stirring up interest, and at Wednesday's hearing representatives from those cities will be on hand to combat the plan of the inland roads.

The most strenuously contested fight yet referred to by the Interstate Commerce commission is in prospect on the question whether the transcontinental terminals east and west shall retain their natural advantage of competing for freight rates or whether inland cities like Chicago shall absorb all the distributing business of those terminals up to the very banks of the Hudson and Sacramento rivers.

$10,000 FOR LAKE MERRITT DAM

Council Proposes to Appropriate Money for Twelfth Street Improvement

On the recommendation of City Engineer Turner an ordinance was introduced last night appropriating $10,000 to improve the Twelfth street dam. This will only be preliminary to other appropriations that will be made in the next two years. It is the intention of the Council and the Board of Public Works to make Twelfth street, near the lake, one of the beauty spots of the city by means of various adornments. The streets leading on to the dam and the park south of the Twelfth street dam will be ornamented and beautified. The $10,000 will be used in elevating the grade of Twelfth street and making a foundation which may be used in the future to bring Twelfth street up to the level of the park.

The ordinance was referred to the ordinance and judiciary committee by Chairman Elliot pro tem.
